minds us that freedom is everybody's job."

The idea of Freedom Train was conceived as a means of stirring the American people out of their apparent complacency regarding their privileges and obligations as citizens, by reminding them of their important heritage, he continued.

"The Freedom Train is a moving symbol of our dedication to our American Way of Life. The visit of this Train with its many exhibits of historical documents is an important educational event for this area. Citizenship education stems from a deep realization and well-informed conception of the lessons of the documents on display on the Freedom Train. In this Train, we found a concrete, dramatic symbol of the ideals of which are the basis of the American Way of Life.

"This Train can serve as an opportunity to summarize the story of the qualities of good citizenship toward which all education is aimed. The arrival of this Train makes people aware that as citizens they enjoy rights, privileges and opportunities far beyond those found anywhere in the world, and it makes clear the activities in which every person must take part in establishing their relationship to the preservation of our freedom."

Mr. Viebrock expressed the appreciation of the Village Fathers to those responsible for bringing the train to Freeport. He predicted that all who went through the train would be everlastingly inspired to preserve freedom and democracy.

Students in the Freeport Junior-Senior High School and the elementary schools and the surrounding schools, together with their teachers visited the Freedom Train.

was struck by the fact that the "educational program for the future personnel and management material of the banking business, which should be a model to other enterprises" was "without a permanent home, with its students getting pushed around to whatever place they can find which has large enough facilities at reasonable cost and reasonably adequate teachers."

A.I.B. Shovel Around.
Mr. Heger recalled that while he was studying at the institute, it met in Adelphi College, Garden City; Hempstead High School, a Hempstead public school and after his graduation returned to Adelphi, then met in Hofstra and again at Hempstead High.

He pointed out that instead of setting up a separate new institution with all the hazards such a plan may involve, he had "secured continuity and permanency for my idea in co-operation with Hofstra College."

Mr. Heger said he first broached the matter to Augustus B. Weller, president of the Meadowbrook National Bank, then with President Adams of Hofstra and finally after consultation with attorneys he arrived at the decision to provide funds for the new institution.

The donor was brought to this country from Germany when he was six years old. He had his early schooling in Lindenhurst, and as a boy worked in a button factory, and served as grocery clerk in Brooklyn. Leaving in Hempstead he became an insurance agent, then entered the hardware business with stores in Rockville Centre and Lynbrook. He next branched out to selling, building, financing and managing real estate.

He bought stock in several banks in 1920, was one of the organizers of the Lynbrook Federal Savings and Loan Association and acquired stock in the Bank of Malverne, of which he became vice-president in 1931. He eventually became president of the institution and also the Lynbrook Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Eddie Vasil, Leader Columnist, Honored On 15th Year As Writer

Eddie Vasil, columnist, has introduced numerous celebrities in THE LEADER, so now that as he is celebrating the 15th anniversary of his introduction to the newspaper field, it is not more than fair that the introducer be introduced.

Modest Eddie somehow let it out that this was celebration time, so a group of his friends got together and arranged with THE LEADER to publish an anniversary issue as of this date, containing three pages of compliments to the columnist.

Mr. Vasil started as a columnist in 1935 as a writer for the Webster (Mass.) Times, New England's largest weekly, turning out "Cheerful-Heartful" from week to week. His columns have appeared in the Boston (Va.) Times, Springfield Republican, Putnam Patriot and Windham County Observer.

He has been associated with the staffs of the New York Daily News, the Mirror and during the early years of World War II served as Feature Editor of the War Department.

The Leader

Eddie Vasil INTRODUCES

...Jock MacGregor

"Dean of a royal radio family." Jock MacGregor's name is known to millions of the radio and television audience as a top producer and director. He created and produced the Nick Carter, Elsie Kid, Renfrew of the Mounties, Mysterious Traveler, and Brownstone Theatre programs. His brother Kenneth is with NBC (Archie Andrews and Henry Morgan shows) and his daughter Joan is Women's Program Director and disc jockey with WGBS. (She recently became engaged to the program manager.)

Mr. MacGregor's offices are located on the 23d floor of the WOR skyscraper at 1440 Broadway, Manhattan, overlooking Times Square. This is the program department where countless fingers type miles of script; the heart of this major radio and television outlet. He has been associated with WOR since 1942.

The man, Jock MacGregor, is intriguingly interesting in appearance. It speaks of mystery, Shakespeare, the theatre, Cape Cod Playhouse and drama. If one was casting a movie part for a typical radio mystery writer, he would choose Jock MacGregor. Yet he started raising his beard in 1944 when he moved to Freeport as his symbol of the "gentleman farmer" type of Long Island resident, and his childhood was that of the average New England boy, son of the high school principal (Brookton, Mass.). His hobbies are the raising of tropical fish and gardening.

Mr. MacGregor was born in Hamilton, New York, fifty-three years ago, and the family moved to New England while he was a youngster. He attended the local schools and although he was graduated from Harvard Engineering School and Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a Civil Engineer (Rockville Centre disposal tablet bears his name), his true love was always show business. He became an engineer to satisfy his New England tradition, but his great desire and talent soon made his name associated with many theatrical presentations.

The background of this personality includes activity in all major fields of show business. In radio since 1934, associated with KDKA, NBC, and WOR, as a writer, director, producer, and talent auditor, he has been at the top of most major listener surveys. He has appeared on Broadway with Walter Hampden, Ruth Gordon, and Vincent Price, many legitimate theatres throughout the country, and as a radio actor on most top programs. He also appeared in Astoria-made movie short subjects.

Unlike most writers, Mr. MacGregor has not, nor has he a desire to write a book or a play. His main interest lies in radio and television and he intends to take a more active part in TV when it matures to the point that the mechanical aspect is eliminated and true artistry can be exercised. He and Phil Clarke of Merrick, have invented "Dramasonics," a device which combines radio and electronic principles which makes it possible for video actors to perform without the need of script memorization. The lines are transmitted via radio to a miniature receiving set audible only to the performer.

The MacGregors reside at 420 Archer st. She is the former Alva Hamlet of the well-known Hempstead family. He is a member of the Masonic Order, Eastern American Federation of Radio Artists and the Radio and Television Directors Guild. Jock MacGregor is a favorite with the neighborhood children who are Nick Carter fans.

"Start with a small station—not much money but plenty of experience." This is the advice for beginners from ace producer Jock MacGregor, "Dean of a royal radio family."

Mr. Berry, an Englishman, is Chief Press Officer of the Department of Public Information of the UN. In 1943 he came to New York in the first delegation to the UN in the press division. Mr. Berry organized the National Organization of Journalists and from 1941 to 1946 was secretary of the International Federation of Journalists of Allied and Free Countries.

Exchange Club Advises Truman It Favors American Democracy

A petition signed by numerous members of the Exchange Club of Freeport, placing the organization on record as favoring the continuance of the American Democratic form of Government, has been sent to President Harry S. Truman. Other copies have been forwarded to U.S. Senators Irving M. Ives and Herbert H. Lehman, Congressman Leonard W. Hall and the National Exchange headquarters in Toledo.

The petition was drafted by the resolution committee, of which Richard G. McChesney is chairman, and acted on at a meeting of the club.

It read as follows: "The signatories of this petition are from members of the Exchange Club of Freeport who are citizens of the United States of America who recognize the American Democratic form of government as the finest form of government yet known to mankind. Their chief concern is that they and their families may continue to live under such a government. They are sincere in wishing to see a continuation of the philosophy which contends:

That the State is the servant of the people
That the rewards of individual effort shall not be confiscated through taxation without limitation
That complete governmental security has its cradle to the grave is a brand of Socialism completely at variance with the individualism that has made America strong
That Governmental spending should be balanced with income even if it means curtailment of some social gains, because these signatories are of the opinion that economic freedom through individual initiative is the essence of a Democratic strength.

This petition is, therefore, submitted to you, Mr. Truman, so that you may know that this is the considered opinion of this thinking group.

Lateral District 13 Is Formally Created By Sewer Commission

Takes in Large Area In Southern Section; Civics Thank Members

Lateral Sewer District 13 was formally organized at a meeting of the Sewer Commission Monday night in the Municipal Building. Chairman Leo Fishel presided.

The district is one of the largest in the village. Approximately it extends from Woodcliff ave. to South Long Beach ave., taking in the intervening streets southward to the waterfront.

Members of the Atlantic-South Civic Association worked for months to get the necessary signatures to petitions calling for the creation of the district. Fred Cook was in charge of this project. After the board had acted Monday night, he expressed his appreciation for the co-operation of Chairman Fishel and all the members of the commission, the village engineer and all who had any part in the success of the drive to bring about the establishment of the district.

Benjamin M. Asch also expressed his compliments to all who assisted the civic workers in achieving their objective.

Mr. Fishel expressed the belief that the funds would be available to carry out the project shortly after the village settles its next fiscal year on March 1.

At first it was thought it would be impossible to take all the property desired into the district. However, after the meeting had been advertised it was found additional funds would be available to include additional properties, another hearing was advertised, and the board after a hearing voted unanimously to create the district.

Chamber Civics Group To Make Housing Survey

At a meeting of the executive board of the Freeport Chamber of Commerce held in the Shorewood Hotel Monday night, President Joseph Goldblatt assigned to the civic committee the task of conducting a survey of housing conditions in Freeport. Samuel L. Vasil is the committee chairman. His associates are Abraham Segel and Peter Kelly.

The membership report showed 200 pledged to join the Chamber this year towards its goal of 500. An encouraging feature, President Goldblatt announced, was that many residents were taking out 30-Best-member memberships in response to the plan for all Freeport citizens to join the organization by submitting their names and addresses with dues to the secretary of the Chamber, 64 South Grove st.

Enid Hall Griswold Addresses Athenians

Urges Women to Take Greater Interest In Affairs and the Vote

Mrs. Enid Hall Griswold lectured on "Civic Responsibility" at a meeting sponsored by the Civics Department of the Athena Club Monday afternoon in the Seaman ave. school. She was introduced by Mrs. Garrett A. Goetschius, Jr., the department chairman.

Mrs. Griswold urged women to shake off their lethargy, take more interest in current affairs and particularly to go to the polls and vote on Election Day.

There are more women in this country who are eligible to vote than men, but far fewer who take advantage of their privilege, she said. "Why deplore large taxes if we do nothing about electing men of ability?" Mrs. Griswold asked. She asserted that too many leaders sell out for political expediency with no thought for the future.

"We did not create this great country and it is not our privilege to destroy it," she continued, "but this can and will happen if we allow displaced persons with communistic tendencies to crowd into the United States, as has been happening during and since the war."

The Federal budget has been increased by billions, but Federal spending has not brought the promised prosperity, Mrs. Griswold said, therefore bureaucrats should be restricted and taxes reduced, not increased. "The Government has no money, only the power to tax your money, your expenditures, so it is you, the ultimate consumer, who finances and pays for all Federal Aid," she added. "Too many subsidies weaken moral fiber, and only man's own efforts and determination can preserve our Democracy."

On Monday the Athena Club will entertain presidents of many Long Island Women's Clubs in the Columbus Ave. School at 2:15 P.M. The Choral and Drama Departments will present an Oriental program of music and drama under the chairmanships of Mrs. Meredith Clowes and Mrs. Charles Lutz.

Exempts' Auxiliary Aides 'Old Jumbo' Fund

The Women's Auxiliary of the Freeport Exempt Firemen's Association gave a successful card party in the Brooklyn ave. headquarters to raise funds with which to erect a building to house Old Jumbo, the steam pumper which has been presented to the Exempts as a relic.

Bob Spitzler in Cast Of College Play

Plays Pastor Manders In 'Ghost' by Ibsen; Is Lauded in Program

Robert Spitzler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Spitzler, 192 Pennsylvania ave., portrayed the role of "Pastor Manders" in the presentation of Henrik Ibsen's "Ghosts" by students of Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va., last Friday night.

In the program under "Who's Who in the Cast," the following tribute was paid to the Freeport youth: "As the greatly respected Pastor Manders, Bob Spitzler does a very admirable job of carrying a major portion of this evening's play on his shoulders. Bob, a pre-law student, is hardly the ministerial type in real life; and the way in which he so easily converts his personality on the stage makes his performance even more astonishing. Bob's versatility may be explained by his active interests in speech and dramatics in high school. Bob's pleasantly resonant voice has carried him through roles in 'Life with Father' and 'Dear Ruth' in Freeport high school and the Theatre Guild production of 'You Can't Take It With You' presented earlier in the academic year.

"Bob pulls no punches about talent, his or anyone else's. He feels that it is not so much talent that counts; rather, he feels, it is intelligence and sensitivity toward a part which makes for a good performance."

Trapp Family Program Enjoyed By Large Appreciative Group

A program by the Trapp Family Singers, second in the 1949-50 Community Concert Association series, was enjoyed by a large audience that gathered in the Freeport High School auditorium. This group comprises nine members of the family with Dr. Franz Wassner, their family priest, as director, making it one of the most unique groups in the musical world.

The family comprises Agathe and Eleanor Trapp, first soprano; Martin, second; Werner, tenor; Martina and Hedwig, first alto; Maria Augusta second alto; with Rosemarie and Johanna as recorders. They opened the program by singing, "Surrexit Pastor Bonus," by Orlando Lassus, the Netherlands composer. Then followed "O Maria Diana Stella," a 15th century Italian; "Gloria," by Bach; "O Canticum," a Gregorian chant, and Kyrie and Agnus Dei, "Missa Brevis," by Palestrina.

The second group comprised "Palmer Is Women In," by a 13th century anonymous composer; "The Little White Hen," by A. Scandell, and John Dowland's "Come, Heavy Sleep."

For the third group the chorus sang "Le Rossignol en amour," by F. Couperin; the suite from music of "The Fairy Queen," by Purcell; and an allegro from Sonata in B flat by Handel, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach. After that there was a group of folk songs and yodels from the Austrian Alps, and the group sang "The Oak and the Ash," arranged by Wassner; "Relske Love Lull," arranged by Robertson; "Youpe, sur la riviere," arranged by Wassner, and "Evening Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel," by Humperdinck-Wassner.

A feature of the concert was the singing of "The Orchestra Song." The Trapps also executed several Austrian National folk dances as encores.

The next concert will be a violin recital by Joseph Fuchs on Wednesday night, March 8.

Teacher Leaders To Debate Issues

Earlier Retirements And Disability Topics Planner at Conference

Earlier retirements and disability benefits for public school teachers will be the subject of a conference of teachers' association presidents sponsored by the Nassau County Classroom Teachers' Association. The conference will be held in Memorial Hall on the Hofstra campus beginning at 7 P.M. Supper will be served cafeteria style at 5:30 to those who make reservations in advance to Mr. Robert Wilson of Merrick.

Invitations have been sent to more than 300 Nassau county teachers, including the presidents and legislative committee chairmen of all local teachers' associations, and the official delegates to the N.Y. State Teachers' Association from this area.

Mrs. Charlotte Lavat of Great Neck and Mrs. Bertha Beryman of Long Beach, the legislative chairmen of N.C.C.T.A., will preside. The discussion will center around a number of bills already introduced in the state legislature. One controversial measure, No. A-3063 would require a teacher to retire at the request of a board of education if the teacher is eligible for full retirement benefits. The county teachers association fears this would be a money saving device without regard for the ability of the teacher being forced to retire, since a younger replacement could usually be secured at a lower salary.

Bills favored by N.C.C.T.A. include several to benefit teachers with service prior to the formation of the present state teachers' retirement system in 1921, and others to benefit teachers on disability retirement after 15 years service in the state.

The meeting is open to any teacher or layman interested in these problems as an observer. There will be no admission charged.

A CHILD CAN "LOSE FACE"

By MABEL-RUTH JACKSON

"The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel

Mrs. Collins' father, Mr. Thurber, was spending a few weeks with his daughter and her family. He was a quiet, thoughtful man and said little, so that sometimes his daughter almost forgot he was present. The afternoon Mrs. Grant, with her little daughter Gladys, came to call, Mr. Thurber was sitting in a high-backed wing chair in a corner near a window, reading. Little Billy Collins was lying on his stomach on the floor, coloring pictures in a book.

When the callers were seated, Mrs. Collins looked at her, small son, absorbed in his work, and exclaimed, "Billy Collins, aren't you ashamed of yourself? You haven't said 'How do you do' to Mrs. Grant and Gladys. And look at the mess you've made on the floor—all those crayons and books! Get up!"

"Just a minute, Mother," Billy tried to finish coloring the red barn, but his mother ordered, "Get up! At once!" Billy rose slowly, his mouth set defiantly.

"Now come and speak to Mrs. Grant and Gladys. I'm sure Gladys doesn't keep right on playing when she has company. She speaks nicely to them, and she picks up her things and puts them away. Don't you, Gladys?"

Gladys nodded primly. However, Mrs. Thurber, watching from the corner of his eye, thought her expression indicated a hurried searching of her memory as to whether she really was so neat and well-mannered. But she seemed to decide that if a grownup said so, it must be true.

Under additional prodding, Billy went over to Mrs. Grant, mumbled something, and then looked at Gladys.

"Pick up your books and crayons and take them out to the dining-room table and let Gladys color some of them," commanded his mother.

That was too much. Let someone else color the pictures in his own book! "She can have 'em all," Billy cried and ran from the room in tears.

After the visitors had gone, Mr. Thurber spoke to his daughter in a decidedly uncompromising voice. "Well, Mary, I was certainly surprised to see the way you behaved this afternoon."

Mrs. Collins' eyes widened. She was already flushed and nervous. "How I behaved? What in the world do you mean?"

"In the first place, you didn't introduce me to Mrs. Grant. I stood up when the callers came in, but when I saw you weren't going to pay any attention to me, I sat down."

"Oh Dad, I'm dreadfully sorry. I forgot you were here—you're so quiet and I can hardly see you in that chair."

"It doesn't matter—except that you were scolding Billy for practically the same thing you did. Then, you expected him to stop in the middle of what was very important to him and act like an adult. When he didn't do so, you scolded him. You shamed him in front of others, and what was especially humiliating, before another child; this was bad for both of them. You made him 'lose face,' as the Orientals say. It isn't good for a child. It creates a poison of resentment and a lack of self-confidence that may affect him all through his life."

Mrs. Collins had seemed a little resentful herself, but now she sank into a chair, looking sober and thoughtful. "I—I can see that you're right, Dad," she said honestly. "All that I thought of was making a good impression on Mrs. Grant; this was her first visit. I was thinking more of that than I was of Billy. Thank you, Dad, for placing the case before me in so clear a light."

Issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York City.

Travel-Tempos

By DEAN ADAMS—ANS Features

EUROPEAN TRAVEL is no longer a luxury for just the lucky ladsen public since lower priced accommodations have been made available by both airlines and steamship companies. Some 400,000 Americans are expected to visit Europe this year. Pan American World Airways, American Overseas Airlines and other major lines are offering a 15-day round trip from New York to London for just $385 (three March)—a considerable reduction from even the previous off-season round-trip rate of $465.70. This plus as much as 70% reductions on European railroads and the advantageous rate of exchange makes a two week European vacation comparable to any major trip on this continent.

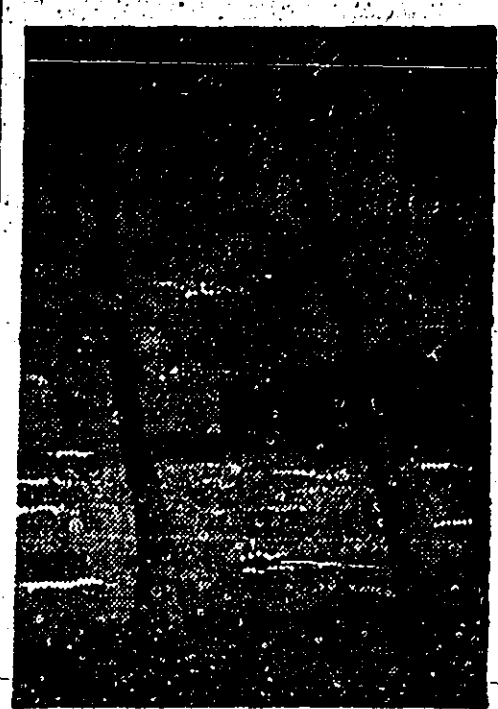

ONE REASON FOR THE MOVEMENT to Europe is the fact that 1950 is Holy Year and numerous 10-day pilgrimages are scheduled to Rome thru the Felix Roma non-profit organizations. Special all expense trips are arranged for $498 from N. Y. to Italy in the hope of enabling the persons with lower incomes to make the trip.

REGARDLESS of the mass movement, the European Travel Commission surveys show ample space available on both air-liners and steamships. Reservations thru March and again in the fall are more plentiful — the summer months being fairly well booked.

DOWN SOUTH AMERICA WAY, the colorful Lima Port of Peru, stays open until April 15th, and enables tourists to see Peruvian handicraft, weaving and metal works without traveling to remote villages. Its program includes Spanish, French and Italian theatrical performances, art exhibits and concerts, ballets, variety shows, and football and basketball tournaments.

THE WEST INDIES, rich in romance and history, have rapidly become a favorite of vacationists

...and the islands are extending a welcome hand. The Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Bureau on King's Ward at Port of Spain is typical of the reception. They greet the ships and see that tourists get the most out of their visits.

THE HAVEN pictures is Sans Souci Bay, Trinidad where the temperature is mild the year-round and the trade winds act as a natural cooling system.

LUXURY CRUISES and luxury type freighters are available from many major U. S. ports to the West Indies. For example, Panama White Lines have recently re-established their Caribbean service interrupted by the war. The Fort Amherst sails from New York every three weeks for a 19-day cruise to such exotic islands as St. Thomas and St. Croix in the Virgin Islands, Trinidad, Grenada, Barbados, Martinique and Antigua. Cruise liners of Moore McCormack's Good Neighbor Fleet leave N. Y. every other week and stops at Port of Spain on both north and southbound voyages ... and round trip is just $475. Air-hops to other islands may be made inexpensively.

Feb. 19-26 Set Aside

As Brotherhood Week

Mayor Robert L. Dossie issued a proclamation this week setting aside the week of Feb. 19 to 26 as Brotherhood Week. He also accepted the honorary chairmanship of the committee which will plan for the observance of the week.

WHEREAS, it is universally recognized that only through the achievement of brotherhood and understanding can our civilization survive; and

WHEREAS, it follows that our national and civic unity also depend upon our achieving toward our fellow-men mutual respect and understanding.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Robert L. Dossie, the Mayor of Freeport, so believing, have accepted the Honorary Co-Chairmanship of the Village of Freeport Committee for Brotherhood Week and do call upon its citizenry to join with our Nation in the observance of Brotherhood Week — February 19 to 26, 1950.

President Truman in his recent proclamation, in meeting together during that week to pledge themselves anew to the ideal of "Brotherhood."

THE ship was organized three years ago with only a few members and now has a registration of 19, with Cornelius Freeman as Yeoman.

Speaking of the activities of the organization Mr. Freeman said today:

"Sea Scouting is a young man's organization open to all from the age of fourteen and up—it enables each man to participate in, under instructions, the following: Swimming, boating, life saving, first aid, navigation, overnight cruises and rope work. Each member of the ship is instructed by competent leaders in various phases of seamanship.

"Our local activities consist of regattas, beach parties, formal and informal dances, moonlight sails and camping.

"We have a thirty-foot Skiff with ample room to accommodate all our members. Recently we procured through the U. S. Navy a new engine which has been installed. We are now ready to start our 1950 boating season with a bang. But of course there is the usual scraping, sand papering, painting and finishing touches, which is done by all the members of the ship. We are looking forward to have our boat launched by the end of May. At the present time the boat is in storage at Marcus Boat Works.

"During the summer season the Sea Scout boat is docked at the foot of Woodcliff Canal near the Viking Fleet. This dock space has been donated by Robert Cleary for the exclusive use of the Sea Scouts. Last summer the officers of the ship built a dock extending into Woodcliff Canal which simplified matters for boarding the boat."

The Sea Scouts meet every Wednesday night in the Archer Street School from 7:45 to 9:45. For further information any young man interested may call either of the following officers: Skipper Fred Lichmann, Freeport 8-0468-J; Mate Richard Gamble, Baldwin 3-2875-R; Mate Frank Johnston, Baldwin 3-7087-W; Mate William Steigelmaler, Wantagh 2-3873-M, or drop in at meetings. Previous Scouting experience not necessary.

LL.P.E. DISCLOSES PLANS TO BUILD NEW LABOR PARTY. Labor's League for Political Education in Nassau and Suffolk counties is following the pattern of its national organization and has no intention of building a third labor party, according to a labor league release to its affiliated members. It was announced last week.

"Candidates will be judged entirely on the basis of their voting records, not on the basis of party prejudice," a statement read. It will not permit itself to become the tail of any party. Candidates are judged entirely on the basis of their voting records, not on the say-so of any political authority."

REFLECTIONS

By Edmund R. Wernicke

A Heap Of Little Shoes

I rummaged through an attic trunk
Of bits we never use
And found, beneath forgotten junk,
A heap of little shoes;
Worn, out-grown—disorderly
They lay as they were thrust,
Till I stirred shoes—and memory—
A heap in somber dust.

The echoes made the attic gay
With unseen company,
Like tiny tears of yesterday,
When baby cut her knee;
For, waking from their silent sleep,
The yesterdays ran wild,
As though these things, alone, could keep
The laughter of a child.

I thought of sticky little hands
That mischief flourished in,
And turned-up nose and baby teeth and Topsy-turvy grin.
Sweet fragment of eternity,
But that you hadn't ended!
Like broken dolls brought tearfully
That never could be mended.

She meant so much that baby shouts
Disturbed the very stars;
And years of hopes and fears and doubts
Upon the heart left scars.
Her voice left ripples in the air
That made a joy of strife;
We had so much for which to care,
It made existence life.

And so these shoes—as then, untied—
I once more put away,
And closed the lid—to shut inside
A lovely yesterday.
Ah, that she would need us still,
But, as they grow, we lose
The share of heaven meant to fill
A heap of little shoes.

Freeport Federal Savings Reports Successful Year; Assets $6,931,033

The Freeport Federal Savings and Loan Association continued its steady growth during 1949, maintaining its position as the fourth largest Federal Savings and Loan Association in Nassau County, as well as rendering a real service to the community in the promotion of thrift and home ownership. The Association closed 1949 with $6,941,033.18 in assets, having gained 27.77 percent during the calendar year. The mortgage portfolio showed a net increase of $1,434,298.31 which brought mortgages outstanding to $5,988,212.77 at year end. The average loan during the year amounted to $6,700 on conventional loans and $7,351 on loans insured by the Veterans Administration.

At the close of 1949, the cash and Government Bonds amounted to $857,428.26, representing a liquid position of 12.35 percent of total assets. At the end of 1949 total reserves amounted to 5.34 percent of assets. During the past year, earnings from operations were channeled into reserve accounts amounting to $64,145.54. The institution is steadily accumulating a satisfactory safety margin as security against the future.

Throughout 1949 the Association received savings and investment money which brought the capital outstanding up to $6,381,762.71 at year end. This represents an increase of 26.89 percent during the twelve months. It is gratifying that 1554 savings accounts were opened during the year bringing the total number of savings members to 5,060 as of December 31.

Despite the fact the earning power of investments continued on a low level during 1949, the Association distributed to its members a total of $132,541.89, representing a dividend of 2 1/2 percent. It has long been a policy of the Freeport Federal Savings & Loan Association to pay just as high a dividend as is commensurate with the building up of an adequate protection in reserves and with a competitive lending rate, which permits sound mortgages to be placed on its books.

In addition to savings accounts and mortgage loans, the Freeport Federal maintained the following services for the convenience of its customers: Christmas club, savings bonds, bond redemption, travelers' cheques, money orders, home guar-

Meadowbrook Bank Names New Officer

W. E. Van der Waag, With Federal Reserve Executive Vice-President

Walter E. Van der Waag was named executive vice-president of the Meadowbrook National Bank at a special meeting of the Board of Directors, President Augustus B. Weller announced this week.

Mr. Van der Waag is currently employed by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York as a special representative—in performance of the public relations activities of a position he has held for approximately four years after some three years of service in the Credit Department. He is well known in banking circles as a result of this work. Mr. Van der Waag launched his banking career in 1929 with the National Park Bank of New York, later absorbed by the Chase National Bank, in which he was identified with Credit and Branch Administration operations.

Commenting on Mr. Van der Waag's appointment, Mr. Weller said: "The recent merger of the First National Bank of Merrick and The First National Bank and Trust Company of Freeport and the forthcoming consolidation of the West Hempstead National Bank into the Meadowbrook organization has made the need for additional executive talent more apparent. The Board was unanimous in its agreement that Mr. Van der Waag's banking experience made him an excellent choice for the position."

Mr. Van der Waag, who will not have restricted the activities or responsibilities of the present officers and executives, but should expand their opportunities for advancement. Mr. Van der Waag, who is expected to assume his new office some time in the early Spring, lives in Freeport, with his wife and three children.

Canadian Snowy Owl Stops Current As He Dies on High Tension Wires

Trouble from the far north falls on this land regularly during the winter season, and the result of the raging winds, snow and ice disrupt the routine comforts of daily living. This year, however, trouble from the north visited the easterly portion of our island, not in the regular accepted manner, but in the form of a lonely snowy owl that made a fatal descent on the Long Island Lighting Company's high tension wires in the Hither Hills area near Montauk Point recently, causing a brief early morning outage.

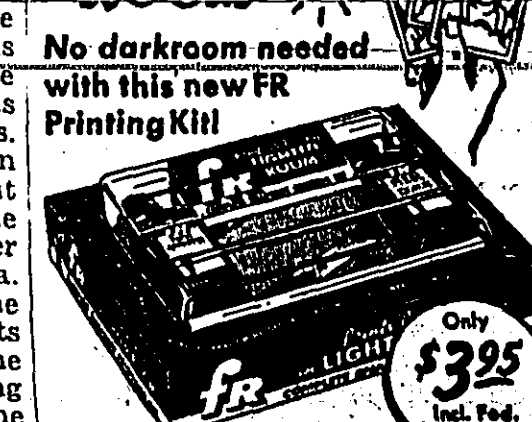

Many of these visitors from the north have been seen in various parts of the country, and some have traveled to such distant points as southern Illinois and the Carolinas. The reason for their presence in the States is interesting, and ought to encourage one to the snowy owls in a humane manner during their brief stay in this area. Reports from Canada reveal the lemmings, the mouse-like rodents which are the favorite menu of the snowy owls, are very scarce. During a season of healthy vegetation, the lemming population of the Arctic region increases with leaps and bounds, much to the delight and taste of the snowy owls. However, occasionally the season of growth is very poor and because of the lack of food, the lemmings are conspicuous by their absence.

When these periods of food rationing occur, the harmless snowy owls migrate into our country in search of field mice. Soon, those who have survived the ordeal and the ways of humanity, will wing their way homeward. Dr. George Miksch Sutton, ornithologist and bird painter of the University of Michigan, who foretold their coming, believes they shall return to the north sometime this month.

The snowy owl has been suitably prepared and mounted and will be exhibited in the windows of the various branch offices of the Long Island Lighting System to remind us and posterity of that single event at Hither Hills on the second Sunday in January and of the greater reality that even the birds from the north come to feed upon our vast abundance.

50-Billion Telephone Calls Made In United States In Year

Telephone subscribers in the United States made 50-billion calls during 1949, making America the "talkingest" nation in the world according to the new issue of Telephone Statistics of the World, released this week by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. This was an average of 34.3 per person and an increase of 29 conversations per person over the previous year.

There were nearly 69,000,000 telephones in the world—an all-time high—at the beginning of 1949. Of the more than 5,000,000 telephones added in 1949, 69 per cent were gained in North America.

The United States, with more than 38,200,000 telephones, or nearly three-fifths of the world's total, on Jan. 1, 1949, had 261 telephones per 100 population. (The U. S. today has about 40,500,000 telephones.) Sweden was second in telephone development, with 22.1 telephones per 100 people, and Canada third with 18.8 instruments for each 100 persons. "The world as a whole had 2.8 telephones per 100 population."

New York continued to lead the world's cities in telephones, with 2,769,567 instruments at the beginning of 1949. This was more than in any country in the world except the United Kingdom.

San Francisco had more telephones per capita than any other city—about one for every two persons, or twice the national average. Outside the United States, Stockholm led the world's cities in per capita telephone equipment, with 45.5 telephones per 100 population, while Toronto led Canadian cities with 38.2 telephones for every 100 people.

What's Wrong With the Weather?

What's wrong with the weather? Here January has past and we haven't had any winter. Yes, there was one real cold day, and a couple when the mercury crawled down in the 20s, but for the most part the temperature has remained above the freezing point most of the time, and on one day passed the 70 degree mark.

Seasons seem to be changing and perhaps it won't be long before we'll be experiencing Florida weather here and Jones Beach will be open all the year round.

Today is Ground Hog Day, the day when the Woodchuck crawls out of his place of hibernation for a peek at the sun. If he sees his shadow, he goes back to remain through six weeks of cold. And if clouds prevent his casting a shadow, he goes back anyway. As The Leader was put to bed and printed yesterday so all our readers could get it in the first mail today we couldn't wait to find out whether the Ground Hog saw his shadow or not. People will have to determine that for themselves. Any way we haven't much faith in these beliefs.

It seems that the Fuzzy Caterpillar is the most dependable animal on which to base a forecast. He indicated last fall it would be a mild winter and it surely has been thus far, with only about seven weeks of winter remaining.

"The Weaker Sex"

A Woman . . .

cold as an icicle of rain that froze before it fell hot as white eternal fire burning deep in hell . . .

a 'weaker sex' that shows no weakness even as it clings . . .

the 'weaker sex' of silent strength behind the thrones of kings . . .

A Woman . . .

whose wit designed the building, and the ravaging of Rome whose presence makes a barren cave become, at once, a home . . .

whose wiles are capable of death, of pain, despair and strife . . .
the Queen of Earth, on whom there lies the gift of giving life.

The Leader Bookshelf

By MRS. ELIZABETH F. KELLY,
Librarian, Freeport
Memorial Library

Have you ever wondered what went on in the mind of the enemy as he made ready to attack your country? Well, the book, "I Attacked Pearl Harbor" by Kazuo Sakamaki will give you this rare opportunity. Mr. Sakamaki was one of the first on the suicide squadron to man one of the miniature submarines which were sent to attack Pearl Harbor. He relates in frank terms, the attitude of the men when they were told that Japan was to enter into war with America. Of course, the reader must understand that these men were trained to feel that they were to protect their country, no matter what the risk involved, and that if they didn't succeed in their mission, they should commit suicide. Therefore, it was understood that when a soldier went to war, there was no hope of his ever returning alive.

This book was written originally to be published only in Japan where it became a best-seller; however, later it was translated by Toru Matsumoto and published in America. Whether or not the attitude of Mr. Sakamaki would have been the same had the war ended with Japan the victor is something we shall never know, but as it is, the story is a gripping one and appears to be very sincere.

It is interesting to notice the change of ideas that take place within the minds of this Japanese warrior as he spends four years as an American Prisoner of War. At first he felt nothing but regret at having been the first to fail in his mission, and made one attempt after another to do what he was taught is right—Commit Hara-kiri! After failing at these attempts, he found his mind slowly changing to a new way of thinking. He then realized that "dying on the battlefield was not the only honorable way to die. To complete one's duties as a man and live until his natural death is another manly way."

"Japan," according to Sakamaki, "is tending to be a democracy, but all ideas in the new Japan are not democratic. Among the new ideas that are fighting the old is Communism. Because Communists always use the word 'democracy,' the Japanese are often confused." The Japanese people as characterized by the author seem to be keeping an open and questioning mind; being torn among their old way of thinking, Communism, and Democracy. "I Attacked Pearl Harbor" is an interesting, informative, finish-one-sitting book that I am certain will intrigue almost everyone as much as it did your reviewer.

Gilbert Maxwell in "The Sleeping Trees" digs deep into the lives of many of the prominent citizens of Malibu's. Divorce is not yet the ordinary thing in this small town yet the early part of Elizabeth Shepherd's second wedding day seemed much as any other day. Somehow it unfolded many of the underlying problems of many people. Elizabeth's parents' marriage had not been a marriage in the real sense of the word. Martin had married Mela because his family objected to the girl he really loved. Elissa Foster was also in Malibu on this wedding day. She just had to see Elizabeth. After she had left, Elizabeth found something that started her thinking, made her talk to her father.

Tom Fentris who has loved Elizabeth for years is also in town. Then there is Marianna, who feels she must devote her life to her twin, Martin, and thus submerges another interest in her life.

This is an excellent picture of how people submerge their real interests, of how little we really know people if we know them only as they appear on the surface.

DURYEA ORCHID CREATION . . . This week's prize Duryea Orchid is awarded to a woman who is leaving no stone unturned in seeking help for the family of that veteran with five children who find themselves in need of financial aid and housing. This is but one instance of helpful activity in which she participates. She has shown great interest in the Seaman ave. Julius Alber Seated Holy Name President

Society Protests State
Boxing Board's Findings,
Also Draper Telecast

The Rev. John J. Madden, moderator, installed officers of Our Holy Redeemer Holy Name Society at a meeting held in the school hall.

Julius Alber was seated as president with the following staff: Arthur Metzger, vice-president; Robert Penner, recording secretary; Daniel J. Carmichael, delegate to the Brooklyn Diocesan union; Chester Weber, vice president; Joseph Condon, sergeant-at-arms; and Anthony Chester, chief of police.

Father Madden complimented John J. Muldowney, the retiring president, on the success of his year in office and Mr. Carmichael on his 14 years of service as the diocesan delegate.

The secretary was instructed to write the New York State Boxing Commission protesting against its findings after investigating the charges against a Nassau County promoter who was accused of putting members of the Freeport Police Boys Club in the ring against professionals under assumed names.

A $10 donation was voted the St. Rocco Catholic Club which is raising a fund with which to build a clubhouse.

Letters of protest were ordered sent to the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Ford Motor Co., for permitting Paul Draper, to appear on a Mercury Telecast Sunday night program, because of the star's suspected subversive beliefs.

Facts About Permanent Teeth, Importance and Preservation

(Following is the second in a series of question and answer articles published by The LEADER in cooperation with the Nassau County Dental Society in observance of National Children's Dental Health Day, next Monday.)

What are the permanent teeth? The permanent teeth are the second set of teeth with which nature endows us. As a rule they number 32, although in some persons one or more of the set may be absent while in other persons may develop one or more supernumerary (extra) teeth.

When do the permanent teeth come in?

The first permanent teeth appear when the child is about six years old. These are called the six-year molars. They come in directly back of the last primary teeth in both upper and lower jaws. The other permanent teeth follow at fairly regular intervals during the next few years. At about the age of 13 the child's permanent dentition is usually complete except for the third molars—often called "wisdom" teeth—which normally appear sometime between the ages of 17 and 21 years.

Why are the sixth-year molars considered such important teeth? One reason is that they are the sense the guideposts for the rest of the permanent teeth to come. All the other incoming teeth take their positions in relation to the sixth-year molars. Thus if these molars grow out of line or are lost through neglect, the other teeth may shift out of normal position. Another

Norman Posner Wins Championship Among Elementary School Speakers

Norman Posner, representing the Columbus ave. school, and speaking on "The Meaning of America," won first place in the annual elementary school prize speaking contest sponsored by William Clinton Story Post, A. L.

Thursday night in the Freeport High School auditorium. Pamela Rockwell, of the Archer st. school, whose selection was titled "Our Living Constitution" was awarded second honors.

The other speakers and their subjects were: Patricia Ziegler, Grove st., "Meet a Great American—The Bell"; Joanne Gallodora, Seaman ave., "A Noble Experiment"; and Sara Shephard, Cleveland ave., "The Freedom Train Speaks."

The program was opened with a selection by the Elementary Schools Orchestra. The colors were advanced by the Legion color guard, after which the audience joined in the Salute to the Flag. "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung to the accompaniment of the orchestra. Dr. John W. Dodd, chairman of the Legion Americanism committee, made the introductory remarks and Commander Kenneth E. Vaughn, guested the audience.

Directed by Miss Wilanna Brunner, the Grove st. glee club sang "O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand," by J. Hutton; "Crusaders' Hymn," an old Silesian folk song, and "A Tuneable Tale," by Vandevere, and later the Cleveland ave. club gave, "The Song of Songs," by Melba; "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," by Kittridge, and "Fiesta," a Mexican folk song.

While the judges were deliberating the elementary school boys' chorus sang, "The Cowboy," a song of the plains, "The Flag," by Chadwick, and "A Pirate Ship," a folk song from the Bahamas.

Leo F. Giblin, president of the Board of Education, and chairman of the judges then announced the winners and awarded the prizes, after which "America" was sung, the colors retired and the orchestra played a postlude. Robert T. Tavis directed the orchestra.

Besides Chairman Giblin, the judges were Mr. Vaughn, Mrs. Barbara Cruger, president of the Legion auxiliary; the Rev. C. Newman, pastor of the Freeport Methodist Church; and Martin M. Mansperger, principal of the high school. William S. Hughes and Dr. Dodd were co-chairmen of the committee which conducted the contest.

Chiropractic Auxiliary Has Freeport Meeting

Mrs. James W. Long, 155 Pine st., was hostess at recent meeting of the Long Island District of the Women's Auxiliary to the New York State Chiropractic Society. Mrs. Anna Ajosa, of Malverne, president of the auxiliaries of New York State, gave a report on the State mid-season business conference held recently in Utica. Mrs. Norman E. Starcke, formerly of Freeport, but now of Brentwood, presided.

Fledges were received at the conference from the various districts for the Chiropractic Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and funds will be used to purchase Polio Clinic equipment. Other State-wide projects were discussed. An art exhibit, tea and organ recital Saturday afternoon was enjoyed by the ladies and which was followed in the evening by the semi-annual dinner of the Society. Arrangements were also made to hold the annual Convention in June at Syracuse, N. Y.

Mrs. John Cusela of Brentwood, L. I., was received as a member. A report on a successful Christmas party held in the Ajosa home was given by the chairman, Mrs. Kenneth M. Young of Baldwin. Another meeting of the group will be held Thursday night, Feb. 16, in the home of Mrs. Long.

Christian Science

"Spirit" is the lesson-sermon subject for Sunday at 11 A.M., in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, West Merriek rd., at Elm pl. The golden text is "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty" (II Corinthians 3:17).

The sermon will be from Romans: 1, 2 and 5, King James Version: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death. For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "The belief that Spirit is finite as well as infinite has darkened all history. In Christian Science, Spirit, as a proper noun, is the name of the Supreme Being. It means quantity and quality, and applies exclusively to God. The modifying derivatives of the word spirit refer only to quality, not to God. Man is spiritual. He is not God. Spirit is the only substance and consciousness recognized by divine Science. It is a false supposition, the notion that there is real substance-matter, the opposite of Spirit. Spirit, God, is infinite, all. Spirit can have no opposite" (pp. 93, 278).

F.H.S. Band to Broadcast Over WHLI Saturday

The Freeport High School band, directed by J. Maynard Wettlaufer, and other groups will broadcast a program over radio station WHLI and WHLI-FM Saturday, from 2 to 2:30 P.M. in the "High Schools on Parade" series.

James Magidson, president of the Freeport Chapter of the National Honor Society, will speak about school activities, and Edward Watson will announce the program.

Special numbers will include Gar-dell Simon's novelette, "Atlantic Zephyrs," played by Melvin Lawson, trombone soloist; the Stutz ballad, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," a baritone horn solo by Richard Fen-nema, and a special arrangement of the favorite, "The Bells of St. Mary's," which includes a Swiss Bell solo played by Drum Majorette, Diane Jordan.

"Drum Major's Special," a swing march composed by James Hand-lon, former Freeport resident, and now a music teacher in Florida, will be included in the program. Free-port's traditional "theme" will be used as a musical signature of the broadcast.

Henry N. Burnett, director of special activities, has worked with the speakers on the program.
